

Weizmann Tells British 25,000 In U. S. Would Enlist in Jewish Army

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
LONDON.—At least 25,000 young American Jews would volunteer immediately if a call for a Jewish army were issued, Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist Organization, stated at a press conference this week.

Reporting on his impressions of his four-months stay in the United States and Canada, Dr. Weizmann said he believes that the young Jews in the United States will respond enthusiastically to any recruiting call for a Jewish army. "The sky is the limit as far as these young American Jews are concerned," he stated.

A demand that the British government adopt a more positive attitude on the policy of a Jewish National Home in Palestine was foreshadowed in an interview with Dr. Weizmann appearing in the Manchester Guardian. Stressing the fact that high official quarters in Washington share the views of the Jewish leaders on Palestine, Dr. Weizmann stated that hitherto Zionist circles had refrained from demanding a declaration on the Palestine question in order not to embarrass the British government during the grave war crisis.

But now, said Dr. Weizmann, in view of the improved war situation and the willingness of American Jewry to "bear the brunt of the burden in alleviating the misery of countless European Jews," it has become vitally necessary that American Jews be given some indication as to where "their unfortunate brethren can go."

The forum is sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

11,863 ARRIVE HERE

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—Despite the difficulties which Jews in Nazi-controlled parts of Europe are facing in securing permission to emigrate to overseas countries, 11,863 Jewish refugees and immigrants from Europe were admitted into the United States during the first five months of this year, according to the semi-annual report of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society made public here.

Wilner, secretary and president, respectively, of Washington's Adath Israel Synagogue, which loaned the sacred scroll, and both past presidents of District No. 5 of B'nai B'rith; Maurice Bisgyer, Secretary of B'nai B'rith, presenting the Sefer Torah to Chaplain Aryeh Lev of the Chief of Chaplain's Office, U. S. Army; Joseph Bowers of the Jewish Welfare Board; and Philip Goldstein, president of B'nai B'rith's Argo Lodge of Washington. The ceremony took place in the recently completed army cantonment in Arlington, Virginia.

Jews In Polish Ghettoes Keep Stiff Upper Lip; Use Cemetery For Park

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—Iron-handed Nazi rule has not broken the spirit of the Jews in the Nazi-made ghetto of Warsaw, according to newspaper reports received from Poland and described in the current issue of the "Contemporary Jewish Record," the bi-monthly publication of the American Jewish Committee.

Cut off from the outside world by eight-foot brick walls and carrying on their daily lives under the most severe restrictions yet imposed by the Nazis on the conquered people of Europe, 450,000 Polish Jews crowded into the ghetto nevertheless show "no trace of groveling before the Nazis." Instead, "national pride is emphasized, and faith in humanity and the brotherhood of mankind is kept alive," the article says.

One of the most difficult questions of recent months was that of providing recreation in the narrow confines of the ghetto. According to the Nazis' original plan, the Jewish cemetery was to be outside of the limits of the ghetto. Negotiations resulted in the exchange of several streets for this cemetery, which in addition now serves as a park.

Beth-El Picnic Sunday Old-Fashioned Affair

The Beth El Men's Club has completed final arrangements for an interesting and enjoyable old-fashioned family basket picnic for the Beth El Congregation and its family of organizations, including the Sisterhood, Gold Band and youth groups, at Merritt's farm this Sunday, Aug. 17.

Chairman Mack Laner has promised a full day of activity for all members of the family. Potato bag races, fat men and fat women races and children's races and games are on the program. An added attraction will be two baseball games, bringing together the Men's Club and Gold Band teams in the first contest and the Youth Group and the older members of the congregation.

Although all are urged to bring family lunch baskets, refreshments including sandwiches, ice cream and drinks will be available. The committee in charge of the refreshments will be Bert Sicanoff, Dave Hollander, Jack Berkowitz and Leo Talesnick.

Mrs. Louis Rappaport and Mrs. Julius Witoff have arranged a special program for the children. Prizes will be awarded the winners of all events.

The committee arranging the picnic includes Hy Grande, Mack Laner, Sam Rose, Harry Vinstein, Manuel Leve, Jerome Wachter and Bert Sicanoff.

The grounds may be reached by traveling west on Tenth street and following the markers. Merritt's farm is approximately ten miles west of Indianapolis.

Magazine Writer Tells Lindy's Fears Of U. S. Pogrom

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—Should America enter the war and lose it, the Jews in the United States will undergo anti-Jewish outbreaks which "will surpass those in Nazi Germany." Such is the opinion of Col. Charles Lindbergh as reported in this week's issue of Life magazine by Roger Butterfield.

"Lindbergh," Mr. Butterfield writes, "has told more than one close friend that participation in the war against Hitler is sure to cause an internal explosion, a bloody revolution in America. Organized labor, he predicts, will pull in one direction and profiteering capital in the other, splitting the country in two. But it is our national morale that arouses his blackest pessimism. American defeats and the death in battle or by drowning of 'millions' of young American soldiers will be followed, he has said to friends, by upheavals of great violence in the nation. He is especially concerned with the effect such disasters would have on Jews in the U. S. He believes Jews will be blamed for American entry into the war and will suffer for it. If that happens, he has said, the anti-Jewish outbreaks that will occur will surpass those in Nazi Germany, for Americans are 'more violent' than Germans.

Yet Lindbergh is not anti-Semitic, Mr. Butterfield continues. In personal conversation he has expressed indignation over the German treatment of Jews in Europe. But he has never condemned the persecutions publicly, in any of the 18 speeches and articles he has written on world affairs since September, 1939. Several friends and associates have pleaded with him to do so, and he has invariably refused. His usual answer is, "I must be neutral." In dinner-table conversations he sometimes goes further. "Look here," he said to one who raised this subject, "Germany since the last war has been going through a revolution. Compared with the Russian and Spanish revolutions, or even our own Civil War which might have been called a revolution, this German affair has been pretty orderly."

"Orderly" is a favorite Lindbergh word in discussing Germany, Mr. Butterfield explains.

THE ZIONIST FRONT

All is still quiet on the Eastern and Western fronts of the Zionist Organization of America. . . . With the convention only a few weeks away, no candidate has as yet emerged to dispute the presidency with Edmund Kaufmann. . . . As a matter of fact, when the possibility of nomination for the presidency was offered to one prominent rabbi, he shook his head and retorted: "If I win, I lose." . . . What he probably was referring to is the mounting deficit of the ZOA. . . . This reminds us that Rabbi Samuel Blumenfeld has definitely quit as director of education for the ZOA. . . . Considering the limited budget he had to work with, Blumenfeld did a swell job.

LITERARY NOTE

Just published is the fourth volume of the Universal Jewish Encyclopedia, of which Rabbi Isaac Landman is the editor and Louis Rittenberg the executive and literary editor. . . . Dedicated to the memory of Isaac Leeser, pioneer American Jewish publisher of the middle nineteenth century, this volume opens with Dr. Simon Cohen's article on Eduyoth—which, as you may remember, is the seventh tractate of the fourth division of the Mishnah, Nezikin—and closes with the late Rabbi Max Dienemann's dissertation on Gnosticism. . . . Among the distinguished contributors to Volume Four is Assistant Secretary of State Adolf A. Berle, Jr., who authored the article on Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter. . . . Like its predecessors, this volume of the Encyclopedia is chock-full of little-known but fascinating facts, some of which we shall relay to you from time to time.

YOU SHOULD KNOW

There will be a number of important Jewish candidates in the New York municipal election campaign this fall. . . . Edgar J. Nathan is the Republicans' choice for the Manhattan borough presidency. . . . The Democrats have nominated Dr. Nathan Ratnoff for the same post. . . . And Stanley Isaacs, the present incumbent, is going to run independently. . . . The Democrats, as you may recall, have also put M. Maldwin Fertig for the presidency of the City Council. . . . Yet with all this there will be a considerable underground anti-Semitic whispering campaign. . . . The Christian Fronters are going to fight Mayor LaGuardia and all the Jewish candidates with all the viciousness at their command. . . . And if LaGuardia's opponent, District Attorney O'Dwyer, doesn't unequivocally disown that support he's going to be snowed under.

STAGE AND SCREEN

A bronze bust of the late Irving Thalberg, who was one of Hollywood's greatest directors and producers, will soon stand in the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. . . . It is the work of a New York sculptor, Angelo Salemi, and has been approved by Norma Shearer, who is Thalberg's widow. . . . We wonder whether young Carl Laemmle will now really go through with his plan to film Dalton Trumbo's novel "Johnny Got His Gun," the strongest anti-war book ever published. . . . A new Ferenc Molnar play being readied for Broadway by Oscar Serlin will feature Sam (Gunga Din) Jaffe—his first role since the death of his songstress wife, Lillian Tiaz, last winter. . . . Scheduled for an important role in the new Powell-Loy "Thin Man" film is Stella Adler, of the famous Jewish theatrical family.

ABOUT PEOPLE

Congratulations to A. Himmelreich of Tel Aviv, Palestine, whose camera study of a Chalutzta executing a high jump won first prize in the August issue of the American Popular Photography magazine. . . . If you're keeping a list of prospective grandfathers, add the name of Chicago's Harry Grabiner of baseball club fame, whose daughter, Mrs. Fred Friedlob, is now preparing a layette. . . . Perhaps you know Mrs. Friedlob better under her screen name, June Travis. . . . When Baron Eugene de Rothschild arrived here last winter he carried a million dollars' worth of diamonds in a paper bag. . . . But our prize for ingenuity goes to Mrs. Barbara Podawicz, a refugee from Poland who saved her diamonds (not a million dollars' worth by any means, though) by covering them with cloth and using them as buttons for her dress.

Palestine and Nazis To Exchange Internees

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
LONDON. — Negotiations between Palestine and Germany for the exchange of women, children and aged men interned in these countries as enemy aliens are nearing completion, it was reported to the Commons by Richard K. Nazi Order Would Stop Own Hoodlums

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
STOCKHOLM. — Nazi terror against Jews has reached a point where the German occupational authorities have found it necessary to issue an order prohibiting "individual action with regard to the Jewish population," it is reported in the Swedish press. The "individual action" of which the Nazi order speaks consisted of invading Jewish homes, smashing windows of Jewish stores, molesting Jews on the street and robbing Jewish property. Elaborate anti-Jewish laws exist in Norway as in the other occupied countries, despite the fact that there are only 1,450 Jews in the whole of Norway.

"Life Begins For Andy Hardy" Friday At Cool Loew's

Those who follow the adventures of the Hardy Family will welcome the news that the latest of the group, "Life Begins for Andy Hardy," is coming to Cool Loew's Friday. The new film takes its place as one of the finest of the lot, and presents a problem similar to that facing thousands of American homes.

The story deals with Andy, facing the problem of what to do upon graduation from high school. Two roads are open. He can go to work or enroll in college. Before making his decision, he determines to leave home, work for a month, and then make up his mind. What happens when he breaks away from family ties and the protection of Carvel and attempts to succeed on his own in New York, provides exciting story material.

Guest star Judy Garland, making her third appearance with the family as Betsy Booth, gives a sincere performance as the little girl who makes the business of getting Andy out of scrapes. Two newcomers are introduced in the persons of Patricia Dane and Ray McDonald.

The entire cast of Hardy Family favorites form the background with Lewis Stone as the Judge, Fay Holden as Ma Hardy, Sara Haden as Auntie Milly and Ann Rutherford as Polly Benedict.

The companion feature with "Life Begins for Andy Hardy" is the exciting murder mystery, "Elery Queen and the Perfect Crime," with Ralph Bellamy, and Margaret Lindsay.

News pictures are on the program.

Famous Strassbourg Synagogue Razed

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
ZURICH.—The synagogue in Strassbourg, Alsace-Lorraine, a city from which all Jews have been expelled, is in the process of demolition, according to an article in the Strassbourger Neueste Nachrichten. The article is devoted to the "inglorious past of the town under the regime of the Kaiser when Judaism was one of the religions officially recognized by the State."

Revealing that the dome of the synagogue, famous as one of the most imposing buildings in the city, had already been removed, the article states that the Nazi authorities have decided not to convert the synagogue to any other purpose but to pull down the building and use the site as a parade ground where "columns of Strassbourg National Socialists will soon be marching to seal the final union with the greater Reich which liberated Europe from the Jews."

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
VICHY.—The stipulation that Jews must be freely admitted for settlement in Iraq, Syria and Transjordan when these countries are united, together with Palestine, into a pan-Arab federation is one of the major demands advanced by the British government in supporting the pan-Arab federation project, it is reported in the Paris press.

The report comes from Ankara. It says that while private discussions on the subject are now being held in Cairo, a conference of Arab leaders of the countries involved will soon take place either in Cairo or in Damascus, at which the project will be discussed in great detail.

In The Army Now

So much interest has been shown in the doings of Indiana's Jewish boys in the army that The Post has decided to run a weekly column under the above heading. Parents and friends, not only in Indianapolis but throughout Indiana, are invited to send in contributions, as are the boys in the army themselves. The Post is sent free to any member of the United States forces anywhere provided they write in for the paper from camp.

In the list of twelve rabbis who volunteered for summer service as chaplains in army camps, the name of Rabbi Frederick A. Doppelt of Fort Wayne was omitted. Rabbi Doppelt served during July, conducting services at Fort Custer, Battle Creek, Mich.

The members of the Fort Wayne B'nai B'rith sponsored a welcome party for the boys at Baer Air Field Tuesday, Aug. 12, at the Hebrew Center. William Brosler, chairman of the soldiers' welfare committee, took charge.

Harry Bolotin was home for a short stay last week. He is at Camp Wallace, Texas.

Herman Burnstein, who was home for a furlough several weeks ago, is now down in the southwest corner of Louisiana, near the Texas border, where the soldiers from Camp Shelby are engaging in maneuvers which probably will go on for two more months. Herman writes that it is very, very hot in that particular corner of Louisiana, and that it is remarkable how much of a city 50,000 troops can build out in the open spaces almost over night.

Today marks a full month that Herman Cohen of Lafayette has been in the army. He's at Fort Sill, Arkansas, and is the brother of Jack Cohen, whose engagement is announced this week.

Jewish Post Teams Loses To Chronicle At B'nai B'rith Picnic Wednesday

Before a crowd variously estimated at 250, The Jewish Post softball team went down to an ignominious defeat at the hands of a smooth-working Indiana Jewish Chronicle aggregation at the annual B'nai B'rith picnic at Northern Beach by a score variously estimated to be about thirty to something around ten.

After a disastrous first inning, The Post disowned the players and henceforth they played under the name of the Jerusalem Fighters. The Post won only the last round when First Vice President Milton (Josh) Fineberg, a dark horse, slugged a fast ball into right field for a hit. President Max Farb played with The Post, but wasn't so good either.

Morris Strauss played first base for his team, and should have stayed there. Eph Levin umpired the game until he gave up around the third inning, and, in this writer's opinion, his decisions favored The Post. Thanks, Eph! Sam Kroot was called in to save the fallen fortunes of The Post, and when he pitched a strikeout to Abe Goldsmith, he thought it wise to let well enough alone, and retired from the box.

The entire picnic was a success right up until the last item on the program, group singing around the campfire.

AL SEGAL Speaks on The Late Mr. Zilch

I HAVE just heard of the case of the late Mr. Zilch. (It has to do with the matter in Louisville where, as recently reported in this column disapprovingly, a number of the congregations had agreed to withhold the services of Israel from people who were not affiliated with synagogues.)

Take the case of Mr. Zilch. My informant began with the purpose of proving that the Louisville idea is all right. He is—or was—a hypothetical Zilch but here and there a citizen may recognize him as an old familiar. . . . "Yes, this Mr. Zilch looked a great deal like me," some one, here and there, may say.

I am not giving Mr. Zilch an address. He may have lived in Cincinnati, Los Angeles, Chicago, Minneapolis, Nashville. No! He was not particularly a Louisville Zilch.

Mr. Zilch was a Jew. This is to say, he always felt Jewish when he heard of anti-Semites being close by. When he heard of a hotel in Florida that had a sign up against a Jew he grew hot and felt very Jewish. He was so aware of anti-Semitism that he suspected it even where it didn't exist.

(The year his child wasn't promoted in school he was sure it was on account of the anti-Semitism of the teacher.)

In short, Mr. Zilch felt Jewish largely because of the pain.

Not that he did much about it. When they came around to get his contribution in the welfare drives he was grudging. . . . "What good is this doing?" he asked. "Why, when we went to a hotel in Florida last winter you should have seen that snooty clerk. He said he didn't have any more rooms." . . . In the end Mr. Zilch gave $5 to the drive.

You see, his pain of being Jewish was something like his toothache or the pain of his corn when his shoe pressed upon his toe. It was an individual pain altogether. It had nothing to do with the common pain of a people, with anything social.

The day after he gave $5 to the welfare drive Mr. Zilch acquired his new $1,500 car which, unhappily, he was not able to enjoy very long, considering his untimely death.

Mr. Zilch, indeed, had little if anything to do with the Jewish life of the community, beyond its private social convocations. He was a good hand at bridge and much in demand at many of the tables about his town. In this skill he was excelled only by his wife at mah jong. Mr. Zilch was Jewish because of the pain and because of the pressure that pushed him into exclusive association with Jews.

He was not affiliated with any Jewish body and said that belonging to a synagogue was all hooey as far as he was concerned. The time they came to him to ask him to join he said he wasn't interested. None of his money was going to pay the salary of a rabbi; his money, he said, would go only to help Jews who needed it.

But, Oscar, they said to him, a man has got to take his share of common duty. At this he grew angry. . . . "I let you go your way and you just let me go mine."

On Yom Kippur, though, he briefly attended synagogue services. He said he may as well do this one day a year. Then there was jahrzeit. He went to the synagogue on the evening of that occasion because he felt his mother would want him to do it. (Mr. Zilch really had some excellent qualities and I am not trying to make him out just a plain, unvarnished, thorough-going Zilch. I am giving him to you just as he was given to me. I am not so spotless myself that I can point with too much scorn at the spots on Mr. Zilch.)

It should be said that Mr. Zilch paid promptly for all the things that comforted him—for his auto, for his case of liquor, for his wife's genuine ivory mah jong set, for sending his children to camp. However, he had no feeling that he owed anything as a social being.

Well, it came time to bury Mr. Zilch. In the last moments before burial he was joined to the Jewish fold in heaven. The rabbi was a very kindly man and when Mrs. Zilch asked him to bury her husband he didn't argue the matter at all.

Yet he felt certain qualms as he spoke the final words for Mr. Zilch. He had to bite his tongue to keep from uttering what he really meant to say.

"This man," he should have liked to say, "comes to join us now that he dead. As if Judaism were a religion for the dead, not a way of life. I remember him saying you go your way and I'll go mine, but now in his last hour on the earth he goes along with us."

"I could have respected him more had he continued to the last to go the lonely way he chose for himself during his life-time. It is all rather ludicrous—this last minute haste to get into paradise on a free pass."

"I am not begrudging him this and, in fact, I wish him the eternal bliss that we are told is for the righteous. But, my friends, it is a question in my mind whether a man who scorned the religious house of Israel in his life-time should be taken into it when he is dead."

"Shouldn't we say to him, Sir, you had not part in Jewish religious life and isn't it impertinence in you to demand a share of it now that you are dead? You can't call this excommunication since you excommunicated yourself long ago."

The rabbi did not say these things. Instead he spoke charitably of Mr. Zilch and commended him to the Most High.

"And that's the situation," said my informant who is in favor of withholding the rites of Judaism from those who refused to affiliate with the institutions of Jewish religion. The idea is not to keep people from being buried right but to emphasize the importance of Judaism as a way of life.

"Could you, Mr. Segal, in full self-respect have buried Mr. Zilch?"

Our Film Folk of HOLLYWOOD

By HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD—Those movie shorts based on the predictions of Nostradamus, Jewish doctor and astrologer of the sixteenth century, can't be ground out fast enough to keep up with the times. According to interpreters of his prophecies, the seer revealed that a neutral nation, not the United States, would enter the war and play a decisive role—in came Russia. Short now in production deals with his revelations concerning the circumstances, date and location of the final battle of war. Maybe Hitler should be notified.

More war notes: Film vaults bulge with footage made of World War I. Stuff is valueless for pictures about World War II. It is antiquated—even to the sound of an airplane motor.

So conservation-minded have we become that even the "face on the cutting-room floor" is salvaged. Silver retrieved from the scraps is worth $50,000 annually.

Newsreelers are chafing at the bit. Biggest battle in history rages, and not one foot of film is being photographed by a neutral camera.

Maxie Rosenbloom's next starrer will be nothing less than—"The Life of Maxie Rosenbloom." When Maxie was heckled by a pal as to why he doesn't learn good English, he retorted, "What! And starve to death!"

Training regulations will cause Private Garson Kanin to remain a private. It seems that draftees must stick to their assigned groups no matter how badly they are needed in other departments. Only proviso for transfer to a directorship is that he first be selected to go through the officers' training school. However, Kanin won't have to struggle on his twenty-one-a-month. His movie contract, neglecting to mention "national emergency" as a cause for salary suspension, continues in force at a thousand a week.

Zig's-Zags: There's a contest on at the local Paramount Theater—aluminum donors are the contestants—a Paulette Goddard kiss, the prize. . . . Actress Mona Gray (birth-tag Shirley Rose Grossman) "altared" at Yuma with Harvey Goodman, department store owner. . . . Hungry for lights and ermine, the mob went mad over the dazzling premiere of "Charley's Aunt," Jack Benny's latest. A choice list of celebs attended, including Benny. The picture is a pleasant enough comedy—and Jack turns in his best acting to date—but what was all the shootin' for? . . . Ida Cantor built a house in Palm Springs and presented it to Eddie. . . . Among the many old-timers paying last tribute to Charlie Murray were George Sidney, his former partner in "Cohens and Kellys," and Vera Gordon.

Hebrew U. Scientists Discover Typhus Aid

LONDON—A group of Jewish scientists, working at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, has perfected a new technique for fighting typhus and has placed it at the disposal of the British government. Among the doctors who worked on this new and very important medical discovery is a number of German-Jewish refugees, who had established reputations as researchers before Hitler ousted them from the Third Reich.

ONE KIND OF SHOWER

Hot weather and no showers—well, not literally speaking, but plenty of showers for the soon-bride-to-be Lenore Cohen whose wedding is scheduled for this Sunday. Lenore's sister Helen and friend Harriet Tamler gave a super shower at the Lincoln Hotel last Wednesday evening, and her StarDeb sisters gave a more intimate shower at the Homestead the following evening. Feature of the evening was a weird Oujie bottle, obviously named after the well-known Oujie board, which could supposedly answer correctly any questions it was asked. That is, it could answer Yes or No. Even scoffers such as Charlotte Solotken were convinced that the bottle had some uncanny seventh sense by the time the evening was over.

NEXT IN LINE

Molly Litvak and Jack Cohen are engaged. Friends knew it was the real thing when Molly went on her vacation to the lakes, and grew very homesick before it was half over. Yes, of course, she missed her mother and family—but Jack was here, too. Another couple anticipating a state of one-ness are Rosemary Frieberg and Lou Logan. Answering Uncle Sam's summons this week is Dave Tavel, the junior.

PAMPAS MOONLIGHT

Riding the range in the pampas moonlight—doesn't that have a romantic sound? Well, it was romantic for Charlotte Blieden, Inda Larman, Marcus Goldman, Sid Goldman and Melvin Blieden last Wednesday evening. The scene was a unique "Dude Ranch of the West" (west Indianapolis), the time late, under a full moon on western mounts. Now you'll find these five, great Western enthusiasts. Of course it was a little disillusioning to find that three of the rootin' tootin' cowboys at the ranch were employees of Wm. H. Block. But they could ride! Sid, a Fort Harrison officer, is leaving his newly found friends in Indianapolis to join the air corps.

HOST IN BED

The Hai Resh fraternity had a dance in Allen Goldstein's backyard—and, ironically, Allen was sick in bed during the festivities. It was one of those good-time-was-had-by-all affairs. "All" included Janet Cooler and Bill Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cohen, Gloria Strachan and Dave Baernkopf, Caroline Meyers and Fritz Goldbach, Sidney Cahn and an import, Alexander Kahn and Joan Weiss, Jimmy Wohlfeld and Sophie Gerson, Julian Kiser and Gwenn Rosnak, Harry Traugott and Sonny Goldman, Sol Blickman, Helaine Bornstein, Joe Jackson, Selma Cooper, Joe Goldsmith, Adele Sternberger, Bill and Marvin Borman, Johnny Efroymsen, Joan Atlas, Leonard Lurvey, Bud Goldsmith and wife, Jerry Wohlfeld, Bob McGill. Joe Goldsmith wished futilely that he were more of a diplomat when couples besieged him with requests on the nickelodeon—and he with only twelve records.

THIS AND THAT

Little America last week—Blanche Schultz of Terre Haute and Bob Robbins. Blanche's sister Edna, incidentally, is coming to Naptown to live, and work, or vice versa, for the Library System. OBJECT FOR CONGRATULATIONS! Bill Bell got a haircut, thereby losing a magnificent leonine outline, but looking oh so much more civilized. Last Monday night saw the induction of Bernie Bloom as the president of the Pretenders, succeeding Burton Kohn. Amazing look-alikes are Norman Zamcheck, recent visitor here, and Al "Zeke" Linker, of Louisville and I. U.

POETRY

Heard a poem by Christopher Morley the other day that seemed to fit perfectly many a person we know, especially just before the week-end:

"'Twas the night before pay-day, and all through my jeans
I hunted in vain for the price of some beans—
Forward, turn forward, O Time in thy flight;
Make it tomorrow, just for tonight."

Shakespeare (or Bacon, if you belong to that school of thought) would shudder, according to The Peoria Journal-Transcript, if he could see the paraphrasing on a restaurant window in East Peoria. In bold letters across the place appears the line: "What Foods These Morsels Be."

It has been said that the three greatest masterpieces in literature are The Lord's Prayer, the Twenty-third Psalm, and Lincoln's Gettysburg Address: "Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name . . ."

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want . . ."
"Fourscore and seven years ago—
Only four four-syllable words and very few three and two-syllable words. All the greatest things in human life are one-syllable things: love, joy, hope, home, child, wife, trust, faith, God; in fact, all great things are simple things.

TRANSIT SYSTEM MARKS 15 YEAR SAFETY RECORD

An outstanding safety record was established by Indianapolis Railways and the Peoples Motor Coach Company on August 11 when the local transit firms successfully completed fifteen years of continuous service without a single passenger fatality.

That this safety record is unique is emphasized by the fact that the street cars, trackless trolleys and motor coaches have traveled approximately 232,264,526 miles and have transported 1,047,262,376 passengers in our city since the last passenger fatality occurred on August 11, 1926. This tremendous total of passengers is almost equal to eight times the population of the U. S. A. and the mileage approximates 9,290 trips around the world.

The success of the transit firms in establishing this outstanding record is due, officials of the company say, to the devoted attention given daily by all operators to the firm's safety program, to the high standards followed by maintenance employees in keeping the vehicles in good running condition, and to the modern equipment in service here which embodies all the latest safety devices.

HEBREW CALENDAR

Rosh HashanahSept. 22
Yom KippurOct. 1

The Editor Chair:

This Monday, Aug. 11, I received a news item from the Union of American Hebrew Congregations for release in The Post of Aug. 8, that Rabbi J. Marshall Taxay of Terre Haute would speak on the national "Call to Youth" program of the Union Saturday, Aug. 9. This is why, in case Terre Haute readers want to know, the announcement was not carried in last week's issue.

I knew about Rabbi Perley's being transferred as long back at five weeks ago, although the change was supposed to be a secret. The Post wishes Rabbi Perley much success at Alabama University and naturally bids welcome to Rabbi Klausner, the new director at Indiana University.

That Louis J. Borinstein became a dollar a year man is welcome although not unexpected news. That his end of the national defense program will be carried out with dispatch and intelligence and effectiveness goes without saying to those who know Mr. Borinstein. A suggestion: Mr. Borinstein ought to get a new photograph made while he's in Washington. The one in the Indianapolis Star Wednesday is neither a likeness nor does it do justice to the Indianapolis leader.

Heard several scary tales this past week about Jews being refused jobs here because of their religion. One I plan to check on, because it involves a national firm which could very poorly afford to have it known that it uses as a basis for refusing applicants for jobs, the Jewish religion.

Some time ago, probably several years back, I wrote about the feeling of one of the leading members of the Dalton, Ga., Jewish community, that Jewish organizations were unnecessary and that there was no danger for the Jewish community in the United States, and consequently no protective measures need be taken. Well, several weeks back, I got a card from my good friend Benny Cash of Chattanooga, Tenn., who writes: "Last week in Dalton twenty-four families gave $2,600 for the United Jewish Appeal. No one family over $200." Which is that.

Education and Religion

IF THERE is an editorial left on the unspeakable conditions of the Ghettoized Jews of Poland who, according to a Jewish Telegraphic Agency report, average three and one-half persons to a one-window room, it would be in connection with the article by Leib Spiesman in the Contemporary Jewish Record, wherein is told how the Jews traded off a part of their Ghetto for a Jewish Cemetery. To bury the dead of course. But for a more realistic purpose too, to provide a park for the congested Jews, where among the grave-stones they can wander in peace and quiet for what little relaxation is possible. The article also testifies that the Jews are not bowing under the Nazi whip but are keeping their spirits up, and retaining their faith in ultimate resurrection of themselves and the world from the Nazi hell. Which is remarkable, especially considering how many American Jews are beginning to wilt and shrivel before the 3,000-mile distant Nazi attack.

Only Segal Can Write It

A REPORT from a Jewish scientist who reached Lisbon from Nazi Germany tells of a number of Jewish doctors who preferred to remain in Nazi concentration camps rather than secure their release by serving in the German medical corps on the Russian front. These men were rewarded for their courage in defying the Nazis by execution before a firing squad. This is a good subject for an editorial, but not for The Post's editorial writers. Only Al Segal, can do justice to such a theme, and naturally he would have to describe the flight of these brave souls from their earthly bodies after the sound of the execution rifles had been stilled in the bracing morning air, and show how the souls of these men of skill and courage had found eternal respite and peace and contentment in the place where all dreams are fulfilled.

25,000 Jews Would Enlist

THE statement by Dr. Chaim Weizmann in London that 25,000 American Jews would enlist immediately if a Jewish army were authorized by the British government, although at first appearing unwarranted and the figure exaggerated, after some reflection, seems fairly accurate.

During the World War when the Jews' interest in the conflict was more or less identical with that of the Allies, and the Jew suffered not much more than the conquered of other lands, hundreds of Jews joined the Jewish Legion. In fact there are two or three Jews right here in Indianapolis who fought on Palestinian soil in World War I.

So that with the destruction of the Jew now a major aim of the Axis forces, how much greater is the appeal to the Jew to fight not only for democracy, but at the same time to fight for the preservation of the Jewish National Home. This in all probability.

Current Comment

Way Palestine Spared Is Miracle, The New Palestine Says—If we lived in an age of childlike faith, we would have deemed miraculous the way that Palestine escaped the fate that seemed in store for it at the hands of the Nazi armies. The event would have gone down in history as a miracle similar to that which made Sennacherib raise the siege of Jerusalem in the days of Isaiah.

We today live in a more skeptical, though, alas! not a more rational, age. Nevertheless, the way that Palestine was spared, though we do not ascribe it to a miracle, fills us with sentiments of profound gratitude. We are grateful that the toil of decades in building up the yishuv was not swept away by the tide of battle, that the sacrifices made in its behalf have not been rendered futile, that we can build on the foundations laid down for our national home without having to start our work all over again like a spider whose web has been shattered.

Whose Money Is Going To Be Used, American Israelite Wants To Know—Running true to competitive tradition, three of American Jewry's "Big Four" have mounted their respective steeds and have ridden off in different directions.

This time the course is marked "post-war research."

First, the American Jewish Congress entered this field.

Next came the American Jewish Committee.

Now the Jewish Labor Committee is an added starter.

Each of those three organizations plans to devote time and energy to the exploration of the post-war situation as it may affect the Jew.

Your community very likely will be asked to contribute to one, two, or three of that trio of overlapping bits of research.

As a donor to your local welfare fund—

As a supporter of anyone of the aforementioned "Big Three"—

As a friend of actual unity in American Jewish life—

Why not insist upon an answer to the question: "Why this competition?"

Inner Workings of B'nai B'rith Convention Never Revealed, Jewish Transcript, of Seattle, Says—The B. B. Convention has adjourned. It did not differ from many of its predecessors. In it were idealists who tried to fight through entrenched authority. You saw the men who talked but rarely acted. Those who manipulated committees, others who never appeared but worked through back doors to accomplish their purposes. It was a well-oiled machine that knew what it wanted and intended to keep what it had. The window dressing was excellent and artistic. The appeal to patriotism was the one outstanding, genuine pervading sentiment. B. B. contributed its sons in the last war and it will do its full share in the one we now are fighting. The convention failed to grasp the full significance of the urge for a greater degree of democracy in its processes. That will come later when the proper leaders arise, possessing the courage to fight and win against entrenched power and when fraternal politics are thrust into the background.

The Jewish Quizmaster

Editor's Note: Here is another new feature, "The Jewish Quizmaster." We will print each week a number of carefully selected questions, complete with answers. We will be happy to consider questions submitted by readers. All questions used will be credited.

By HARRY GREEN

1. The "V" sign is spreading over the world as a symbol of the eventual destruction of Nazism and Fascism. But for Jew the sign of "V" has an additional and much more ancient significance. How does the "V" figure in Jewish life?

A. For centuries the Kohanim, descendants of the priestly tribe of the Temple which Titus destroyed 2,000 years ago, have formed a "V" with their fingers in bestowing the blessing on the assembled worshippers.

2. It was recently reported that the entire Yiddish press in one of the South American countries will shortly appear in the native language of the country. What is the country, what is the language, and why is this being done?

A. In Brazil the entire Yiddish press will shortly begin to appear in Portuguese as a result of a new law which prohibits the appearance of any publication printed in a foreign language.

3. What was the Zion Mule Corps, and why is it of particular interest today?

A. The first Jewish army, recruited by Vladimir Jabotinsky in 1915, was used as muleteers by the British and was called the Zion Mule Corps. Sixty veterans of this corps formed the nucleus of the Jewish regiment organized in July, 1917 and were sent to the front in Feb., 1918 as the 38th and 39th Royal Fusiliers. Today the question of the formation of a Jewish army is once more being raised in London by Dr. Chaim Weizmann and other Zionist leaders.

4. The Histadruth, Palestine Labor Federation, recently decided to send a relief and medical delegation to the Soviet Union. What is the particular significance of this action?

A. Since the formation of the Soviet Union Zionism has been banned in Russia, and no relations have existed between Palestine and the Soviets. The sending of this delegation is looked upon as the beginning of a possible rapprochement between the Zionist movement and the Soviet Union.

5. It was reported recently that British troops entering Lebanon, after cessation of Syrian hostilities, had freed several scores of Jews imprisoned by the Vichy administration. How has Lebanon figured in ancient Jewish history?

A. At one time, under the rule of Herod, Lebanon was part of Palestine. Also, the famous Cedars of Lebanon were used by Solomon in constructing the first temple.

A. The ghetto first appeared in Germany during the fourteenth century. From there they spread to Central Europe, Italy and Spain.
